Victoria's two shipyards will share a $25,000,000, 40-month contract to build a destroyer-escort for the navy, Defence Minister George Pearkes announced here yesterday.

Victoria Machinery Depot would start constructing the hull in March and Yarrows Ltd. would do most of the outfitting in an even division of the job, he said. (See full details on page 2.)

Bennett Speech

B.C.'s Future Glows

By Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER — Premier Bennett painted a glowing picture of the progress of British Columbia under the Social Credit government for a public rally attended by 1,400 persons at the Georgia Auditorium last night.

The premier spoke of big power dams and plans for British Columbia, and aimed barbs at his critics.

The rally was a forerunner of a two-day B.C. Social Credit League convention which starts this morning.

BILLION FOR ROADS

Premier Bennett pledged B.C. would spend $1,000,000,000 on highways during the 1960s. "If a thing is necessary, we must find the money to do it," he added.

He said the net provincial debt of $191,000,000 when the Social Credit government took office will all be paid by the end of the year.

"After that there will be no debt paid by taxes in this province," he said.

VAST PROJECTS

He said vast developments were planned for the Peace River district and promised a big announcement on the Wenner-Gren development within 15 days, adding that development of Peace River power will not hold up development of the Columbia.

"We need the Peace River and Columbia power as soon as possible," he said.

He said it is planned to develop the Columbia with public power.

"If there are no complications we will use the B.C. Power Commission. If there are complications we will set up a special authority."

NO DAMS

The premier promised the Fraser River would not be dammed until the fish problem is solved.

He called Vancouver Island one of the world's greatest tourist paradises, and said traffic would multiply when fast government ferries run between Saanich Peninsula and the mainland.

Mental Probe Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Matthew Ross of Washington, D.C., director of the American Psychiatric Association, will name a committee to conduct a survey of the mental health services and problems in B.C., Premier Bennett said Thursday night.

He said the survey "is expected to assure a total program covering mental health, mental hospitals and all related institutions and problems."

Black's Contribution 'Outstanding'—Bonner

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney-General Bonner says Provincial Secretary Black "will go down in history as having made an outstanding contribution to the mental health services of our province."

Royal Handshake for Lady 'Alex'

Prince Philip, shown here with Lady Alexander, winds up his three-day whirlwind visit to Canada today with an on-the-spot visit to the tragic Springhill mines. Last night he visited

Earl Alexander, Canada's former Governor-General, who is in hospital recovering from a heart attack. (See other story on page 2.)

Victoria

Mine Fund $800

Donations from the people of Greater Victoria to disaster-stricken Springhill, N.S., grew to more than $800 yesterday.

By late afternoon, contributions had climbed to $519. One anonymous donor yesterday morning gave $100, and there were also donations of $50 and $25.

At the same time a fund at the main branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia had risen to $215, and Mrs. Amanda Matthews, secretary of the Nova Scotia Club, reported that the club's fund amounted to $86 so far.

Alaska Link Certain

VANCOUVER (CP)—A branch line from the PGE at Prince George up the Rocky Mountain Trench to Yukon and Alaska is not more than 10 years off according to Jack Kennedy, a director of the PGE.

Mr. Kennedy gave this opinion Thursday night in addressing a banquet of the Auto Court and Resort Association of B.C.

"The Americans will pay the shot," he said. "Now that Alaska is becoming so important to them, they desperately need a connecting railway."

"It may take 10 years, because they'll have to arrange things with Ottawa."

Death Toll Climbing

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)

—More bodies were brought from the Cumberland No. 2 mine Thursday night as men and women by the score waited in the slender hope that new survivors might be found by tireless rescue crews.

Meanwhile, news reached this tragedy-filled town that Prince Philip will arrive today to extend the sympathies of the Queen and personally inspect the situation.

50 STILL MISSING

Six bodies had been brought to the surface from the tremor-shaken colliery by 8:30 p.m. MST, raising the known death toll to 31. Another 50 miners were still unaccounted for.

Ninety-three of the 174 men trapped by the underground upheaval in North America's deepest coal mine had been rescued.

13,000-FOOT LEVEL

The bodies recovered Thursday night were from the 13,000- and 13,400-foot working areas, the only levels where life might still exist. It was the largest number of bodies recovered in a single eight-hour shift since crews began burrowing through the debris-jammed tunnels a week ago.

NEW HOPE

New hope was given the town early Thursday when a dozen miners found 12 hours earlier 13,000 feet from the pithead were brought out. Officials several days before had given up hope that anyone might still be alive in the mine.

Trade War Threat

VANCOUVER (CP)—A war being conducted by Russia on the economic front is a graver threat to Canada than a shooting war, Labor Minister Wicks said yesterday.

He told the UBC Social Credit Club that Russia is "selling top-quality products in some of our former markets," and one reason is the premium on the Canadian dollar.

JUVENILE OFFICER ADAMS
... swift police action

No Halloween Blasts

Deadly Bombs Tracked Down

What might have been a fatal Halloween tragedy was averted by the swift action and smooth co-operation of three Saanich Peninsula police forces.

Intensive investigation by Saanich and Central Saanich police and Sidney RCMP began Wednesday when five dynamite bombs were found in a boy's locker in Mount Newton High School.

Nine more of the short-fused bombs and detonating caps were found in a bedroom drawer in the 15-year-old Saanich boy's home.

"Any one of them could have blown the roof off the house," said Saanich Juvenile Officer Harry Adams last night.

"And this lad and his chum (a Central Saanich boy and Mount Newton High classmate) were going to celebrate Halloween with them," he exclaimed.

"The fuses were so short the bombs wouldn't even have left their hands before they exploded."

BLOWN HEADS OFF

"It would have blown their heads off," he added.

The two high school students appeared in Central Saanich juvenile court yesterday afternoon and were placed on probation after a stiff reprimand from Magistrate A. L. Thomas.

Police also found and confiscated two cases of stumping powder. It was dated 1948 and was lying in an old shed where the boys found it, police said.

10 TO 12 STICKS

The Saanich boy took 10 to 12 sticks home with him Tuesday night. He fashioned them into crude bombs by cutting them in half, sticking detonators in the ends and attaching fuses, some of them less than an inch long.

"They were so short, the bombs would have gone off the instant they were lighted," said the juvenile officer.

Wednesday morning the amateur bomb-maker took the bombs to school to show them to his chum.

Fortunately, said police, word leaked out and the principal was informed. He ordered the school cleared until police came to remove the explosives.

That's when the three police forces swung into action. They tracked down whispers, rumors, tips and clues until late at night, when they found the culprits and put all the pieces together.

Recovered, all told—and police are satisfied none is left—were:

Twenty-five detonator caps; 25 fuses; 11 loose sticks of dynamite; four No. 16 gauge shotgun shells with wicks forced into the ends; a two-foot length of black fuse; plus the two cases — 200 sticks — of stumping powder.

Judge, Counsel Remain on Call

VANCOUVER (CP)—The foreman of the jury trying former forests minister Robert Sommers and others on conspiracy charges told the court Thursday night it may need most of today to reach a verdict.

Foreman Eric Miller made the statement in reply to questions by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson upon completion of corrections to his charge.

The judge then sent the jury to their locked quarters in a hotel across the street from the Vancouver courthouse in charge of Sheriff Eddy Wells.

THEN TO BED

He told them to deliberate until they had had enough and then go to bed.

The justice said he proposed to stay home until late this morning but both he and counsel would be on call should the jury reach a verdict.

"And God speed you in your work and good night," he said.

The court was adjourned "until the return of the jury."

FURTHER REMARKS

The jury got the case at 3:03 p.m. when Mr. Justice Wilson completed his charge on the conspiracy count but he asked them not to render a verdict until they had heard him further on corrections in his charge suggested by counsel.

Then, with the jury absent, he heard more than two hours of argument about what he should say further to the jury by way of correction and elaboration.

NO REFLECTION

In his closing remarks, the judge told the jury to remember that intelligent adult society does not work on the schoolboy mentality which maintains that one doesn't tell on one's friends.

He said there was no reflection on chief Crown witness Charles Eversfield in telling Attorney-General Robert Bonner what he knew of the case so long as he was telling the truth.

KEY WITNESS

Eversfield is the former bookkeeper of Pacific Coast Services Limited who took numerous documents from the company files when he left in March, 1955. These documents now form the basis of the Crown's case in its 20-count indictment charging that Sommers was bribed for use of his influence in the granting of forest management licences.

Autumn Heat Record

A new temperature record was set here yesterday, the weatherman said.

The thermometer climbed to 65 degrees, a possible all-time high for Oct. 30, certainly higher than any Oct. 30 during the past 60 years.

Voters Risking Death

HAVANA, P. — Cuban rebels Thursday launched what was called a final blow to overthrow President Batista.

The rebel high command declared open season on all 10,000 candidates for national, provincial and municipal offices.

It ordered guerrilla fighters throughout Cuba to fire without warning upon all railway and highway transport. Cubans were warned they risked their lives if they voted.

Rebel leader Fidel Castro fixed dawn Thursday as the deadline for candidates to withdraw or be shot.

'Call Off Tests'—Mayor

A-Fallout Panic Grips California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A sharp increase in radioactivity over Southern California set off a wave of indignation and apprehension Thursday. Mayor

Norris Poulson telephoned a protest to Washington.

He demanded that the all-but-completed atomic weapons tests in Nevada be halted immediately.

But the Atomic Energy Commission, which has been busy rushing completion of weapons tests in Nevada, insisted there was no danger.

The city health department said the amount of radioactivity in the air rose 20 per cent above the accepted safe level for human consumption during a period of months.

Reports of the spurt in radioactivity created excitement in Los Angeles. Newspaper and official switchboards received hundreds of calls inquiring of possible danger.

The AEC insisted it is a temporary situation and that the radioactivity will dissipate quickly. A spokesman said the amount is equal only to the exposure a person would get under normal circumstances in two months.

'A-Quake' Felt Here

A "Hiroshima-sized" atomic blast set off underground yesterday in Nevada was recorded at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich as a slight shock.

William Milne, seismologist, said the shock was "small compared with an earthquake." Shock waves took about 3 1/4 minutes to reach Victoria.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

PEOPLE are inclined to be sad and reflective when the leaves fade and blow away, and when the clock strikes midnight of the Old Year.

Turning-points, and the decay of seasons, remind us of the passing of time. They remind us of our own mortality.

It seems to me that two kinds of people are least bothered by the passing of a year: first, the people who never hope to accomplish anything, and are content to live day by day and minute by minute; and second, the people who feel they have used the time to some purpose.

But a great number of us fit into neither category. We say: "Another year gone, and I haven't raised enough money to help my father and mother..." or "I haven't moved into a bigger store," or "I didn't put in any time swimming and relaxing in the sun."

So we feel nostalgic when the leaves turn, and wish we had the year back.

On the other hand, some people take comfort from knowing that in the season just gone by they have done some of the things they had hoped to do.

A painter may say: "I have completed one picture which does not seem too bad, and I think I have learned to see and feel some new things, this last year."

A dedicated loafer and playboy may console himself in such words as these: "Well, I've packed the year with a great deal of solid sleep and enjoyment, and I've managed to avoid tedious people nearly all the time."

Some men and women are content because they have done everything their strength allowed them to do. Others are forever dissatisfied with what they have gained, and hope to make up the deficiency in the next year.

Cecil Rhodes, at the end of his life, complained that so little had been done, and that so much remained to do. I suppose he had made the same remark to himself at frequent intervals, especially when he became aware of the hours and years flying over his head.

Men who are possessed by great visions of building empires and helping humanity, or by small but intense visions of personal gain, are often unhappy at the passing of time.

Their hopes may be out of reach, or not worth reaching. Discontent drives them on. But they probably go faster if they can stop briefly and recharge their batteries with a little success.

Warship Job Starts in March

Yarrows, VMD to Split $25,000,000 Project

Victoria's two major shipyards will split the roughly $25,000,000 job of building a destroyer escort, starting in March, Defence Minister George R. Pearkes announced here yesterday.

Victoria Machinery Depot will construct the hull of the second of six ships in the Repeat Restigouche class, Yarrows Ltd. will have the completion of the ship, the outfitting, taking that over probably some 21 months later.

Completion of the ship at Yarrows is expected to take another 20 months.

Mr. Pearkes said at a press conference he hoped this would help the local shipyard employment situation and "keep the personnel of these yards busy for a couple of years at least."

Harold Husband, president of VMD, and John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows, later said they greatly appreciated the contract, but were not nearly so optimistic about the job situation.

WAITING PERIOD

Mr. Wallace said that for Yarrows there was still the "desperate problem" of keeping the yard going in its two-year waiting period. Mr. Husband said staff at VMD would continue to be reduced now, and would pick up gradually when the new destroyer goes under construction.

Mr. Pearkes also disclosed that a job of conversion on a naval frigate, now awaiting Ottawa approval, "will probably start on it in the near future." The job would last about six weeks.

More Ship Contracts Wanted from Pearkes

Shipyard workers' representatives here will ask Defence Minister George Pearkes to-morrow for more government contracts to offset unemployment, despite his announcement of a destroyer escort contract for Victoria.

"We are very happy that one ship is coming here, but it will be quite a while before the workers feel any benefits from it," James McConachie, boiler-makers' union representative here, said last night.

"Our membership feels we haven't got our fair share, although Mr. Pearkes has said there will be quite a lot of naval refit work this winter. But those of course, are short jobs."

A delegation of men in the metal trades will meet Mr. Pearkes at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

Violinist Views Victoria

Elizabeth Witmann, soprano and violinist with the Vienna Academy Chorus, takes a first view of Victoria. She found Victoria "more pleasant and warmer than Vancouver" and the Empress Hotel, she said, was "like a palace." The Vienna Academy Chorus was heard last night at the Royal Theatre.

Fine Start to Season

Outstanding Chorus 'Artistic and Happy'

By BERT BINNY

Famous Artists started the current season very auspiciously with the presentation last night of the Vienna Academy Chorus.

Outstanding in every way, this chorus of 24 voices was, perhaps, pre-eminently fine in the matters of control, elasticity and a wondrous capacity to be extremely happy and extremely artistic at the same time.

Their quite marvellous technical accomplishments showed to the highest advantage in two particular items.

These were Antonio Lotti's "Crucifixus" and "the only sacred yodeling song in Austria" sung in the Austrian Folk Song section of the program.

And the Chorus were thoroughly delighted with their gay Mozart choruses. Here they demonstrated beyond any doubt how to paint pictures in song.

The sense of enjoyment by everybody, performers and audience, reached great heights with the group of Peasant Dances. These were played by a five-piece band and, latterly, danced by the balance of the Chorus while accompanying yodels off-stage were provided by conductor, Guenther Theuvsen.

The concluding part of the program provided three compositions of Johann Strauss and one each of Schubert and Schumann.

Diefenbaker Pushes Canada-U.K. Trade

LONDON (CP)—Canada and the United Kingdom have "a unique opportunity to increase our mutual trade," Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday as he began a six-day British visit, the opening stage of his world journey to European and Commonwealth countries.

This opportunity, he said at a press conference, is provided by "our great natural resources and your accumulated skills."

That combination of factors "also imposes on us a general and special responsibility to build up the prosperity of the Commonwealth as a whole."

At a Canada House reception he and Mrs. Diefenbaker, accompanied by Canadian High Commissioner George Drew and Mrs. Drew, met some 350 persons prominent in diplomatic, government and social circles. Many were members of London's Canadian community.

Virtually every British cabinet minister was present, with

Tough, Tricky Operation Faces PPCLI This Winter

'Bushmen' Will Test Men and Equipment

Plans for "Exercise Bushman," the most rugged army training program to be conducted on Vancouver Island since the Second World War, were announced yesterday by Lt.-Col. Thomas DeFaye, commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

"Exercise Bushman" is a program designed to "toughen soldiers, and at the same time teach them to think for themselves under adverse conditions, such as they may encounter in modern, nuclear warfare," will be held in December, he said.

TWO PHASES

The exercise is divided into two phases, a preliminary 20-mile trek through rugged country near Victoria, and a 50-mile mountainous course across the northern part of Vancouver Island.

A six-man reconnaissance party will set out early on Nov. 5, on a course from Mount Lazar, west of Shawnigan Lake, to a spot between Sheringham and Otter Point. They are expected to complete the journey by the next evening.

SAME COURSE

About a week later, the PPCLI will go by truck to the starting point and move, platoon at a time, across the same course.

A navy aircraft, from VU-33 Squadron, R.C.N., based at Patricia Bay will contact the soldiers along the route and fly in at tree-top level to drop food supplies.

Upon completion of this "preliminary training," the more extensive northern operations will begin, Col. DeFaye said.

NEAR TAHISIS INLET

After a reconnaissance party completes the route the PPCLI will start from Telegraph Cove, east of Alert Bay, and cross on foot to the west coast, coming out somewhere near the mouth of Tahsis Inlet.

Each man will carry a pack weighing some 40 pounds on the march which is expected to take from three to five days, and between 500 and 700 men will make the crossing in platoons of 30 to 35 men.

The navy or air force will be called upon to drop supplies to the battalion and to airlift by helicopter any injured during the manoeuvre.

RUGGED TERRAIN

"This is one of the most rugged terrains in the world, and if we can traverse this country, we can cross any country," Col. DeFaye said.

"We want to develop the fit and self-reliance of our soldiers, and to familiarize them with the problems encountered in moving and living in rough country," he said.

Time Not Right

OTTAWA (CP)—An expert on transportation economics advised the air transport board Thursday against Canadian Pacific Airlines' application for a transcontinental franchise.

Dr. A. W. Currie, professor of political economy at the University of Toronto and author of standard books on Canadian transportation, said the time has not yet arrived for competition with publicly-owned Trans-west route. He testified as a TCA witness in the board's long hearings of a CPA bid to crack TCA's monopoly on the transcontinental service. He was still under examination at Thursday's adjournment.

In other TCA evidence Thursday, company president Gordon R. McGregor said competition on transcontinental air services would result in deficits for the government company.

Dr. Currie said he "feels strongly that the time is not opportune for the permitting of another carrier to fly the main east-west route."

"I take this position," he said, "because of the low net earnings of TCA, the uncertainty of the general business outlook, the financial burden of introducing jet aircraft and the fact that instead of receiving the benefits which it expects from pure competition, the public would suffer."

Even with fares maintained at present levels, Dr. Currie predicted, there would be heavy losses for TCA.

Herring Haul Biggest Ever

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fishermen who made record hauls of salmon in British Columbia this year are now netting the biggest herring haul on record. Boats have been scooping up as much as 400 tons of herring—worth $5,000—in one set of nets, fishing on this coast," said a 40,000-ton quota set earlier by the federal fisheries department, was passed last Tuesday—an all-time speed record. "I haven't seen anything like it in all my 35 years of herring run." "The processing plants have been plugged—unable to handle the huge loads hauled in."

Labor Backs China

LONDON (UPI)—Laborite foreign policy spokesman Abernethy Revin pledged yesterday that the Labor party will move to win United Nations membership for Red China as quickly as possible if it ever rules Britain.

He blamed non-membership of the Peiping regime for the threat of force being used in the Formosa Strait crisis.

"If there were a Labor government we should insist upon using all our influence inside the UN in order to bring in Communist China as quickly as possible," Revin told the House of Commons in a debate on government policy.

Revin is chief foreign policy spokesman for the Labor party and thus their apparent for foreign secretary if Labor wins the general election expected to be held next year.

Young Rites To Be Held On Saturday

William Young, 60, assistant manager of the Victoria branch of the Royal Trust Company, died yesterday after a brief illness.

Born in Edinburgh, Scotland, he came to Canada at the age of 13, and was with the Royal Trust Company in Winnipeg and Montreal before coming to Victoria in 1940. He had been with the firm for 45 years.

Mr. Young was an active member of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club, having served as president and secretary, and was a member of Oak Bay United Church. He was also a member of the Union Club.

He is survived by the widow, Eunice, at home, 2527 Thompson Avenue; his mother, Mrs. W. I. Young, of Winnipeg; two sons, Irvine, North Vancouver, and Walter, Winnipeg; a daughter, Sheila MacDonald, San Francisco; six grandsons, and brothers and sisters in Winnipeg and Ottawa.

Bus Transit Award

HIGHER operating costs, lessened public use and a continuation of taxation at peak levels have combined now to produce stiff upward revision of the bus transit fares in Greater Victoria and Lower Mainland systems of the B.C. Electric Company, Ltd. Many had foreseen as inevitable the granting by the Public Utilities Commission of the application by the transit operators, in view of the worsening position of revenues from the bus system. In the new schedule of bus fares to go into effect here on November 9, children's fares in the city zone are retained at 5 cents; but adult fares will move up by approximately 30 per cent, from 10 cents to 13 cents cash or 12½ cents by ticket.

In the Victoria area the new rates will apply to the 3¼-mile limit, with companion increases in the outer areas covered by the B.C. Electric franchise. At that, Greater Victoria will do better than the Lower Mainland, where adult bus fares in a second lift are to move up from 13 to 15 cents, and children's rates from 5 to 7 cents. The children's half-fares in Victoria will be 5 cents cash or 5 tickets by book for 25 cents, but are increased in outer zones.

While no transit user is likely to cheer for stiffer tariffs on the public transit system, all of the economic indices have been pointing in that direction for some time. The traction company apparently was willing to dispose of its bus franchise assets, but the deal mentioned fell through. It could hardly be expected to continue the bus service at a steadily mounting loss; while the alternative for Greater Victoria of a collapse of the whole transit system could prove a much more costly development.

At the same time, one cannot help wondering how long this applied poulitice under provincial direction can be expected to prove effective. Higher transit fares will certainly not increase patrons of the buses, nor will they slow down in any respect the number of private automobiles which each year grows by leaps and bounds. Federal excise taxes of the order of $5,000 per bus for imported public carriers, and provincial road-user gasoline levies running into six figures in the year, are part of the risen operating costs superimposed by taxation.

The Exchange Nuisance

RECREATION Minister Westwood cites an instance of money transfer which understandably he found very annoying. In a B.C. restaurant he was given among his change an American 50-cent piece, and making another purchase a few minutes later in the same establishment he was charged the exchange discount on the same coin. Pointing to the tourist trade he says a happening of this sort might discourage a U.S. visitor from coming to B.C.

It might, although it shouldn't. Tourists from across the line should be aware that the American dollar is currently at a discount and should be prepared for the difference. Much of the exchange problem might be eased in fact if tourists from outside Canada exchanged their funds at their own banks before coming here, although human nature being what it is and American currency being acceptable in Canada it is not surprising that this is infrequently done. It is too much to expect, however, that a U.S. tourist arriving with a pocketful of silver won't put this into circulation in Canada.

Because of the exchange ratio a growing eagerness is manifest among local residents. Victorians there are now who tend to scrutinize their change when making purchases of any kind lest they find themselves loaded with American money. Dollar bills are easily spotted but coinage is not, thus the circulation of U.S. silver in Canada goes merrily on. Resistance to it is on the upgrade, however, nor can Canadians be indicted for preferring their own currency.

Perhaps Mr. Westwood should have refused the 50-cent piece in the first place, for as he found out not all establishments accept U.S. money at par. In the tourist season particularly some business houses do, absorbing the loss as an act of grace conducive to friendly relations and as a stimulant to tourist trade in general. Many Victorians nevertheless find the legacy of American coins that results a nuisance to be avoided when possible. It is especially ironic that any establishment should give a customer an American coin without benefit of premium, and then a few minutes later take it back again only on a discount basis. No wonder Mr. Westwood was annoyed.

Pat Bay as a Training Centre

PROVINCIAL Public Works Minister Chant has offered the businessmen of Sidney a suggestion which should be pursued not only by that community but by Victoria as well. Addressing the Sidney Rotary Club, Mr. Chant invited support for a proposal that a training school in aeronautical mechanics be established at Patricia Bay Airport. Its purpose would be to provide a continuous flow of mechanics qualified for aircraft maintenance and repair work in all branches of Canadian aviation.

Such a school would form an addition to the Dominion-provincial plan of vocational training which is functioning with conspicuous success in other branches of mechanics. It would facilitate entry into a field offering virtually unlimited opportunities for the right men, and at the same time create a recruiting pool for what is now the fastest growing industry in Canada and the world.

As the minister has pointed out, Patricia Bay Airport meets all the basic requirements for a training centre for aircraft mechanics. It has the space and it enjoys a climate which for flying is the best in Canada the year around.

Back from the Dead

THE dramatic recovery alive of 12 miners entombed at the 13,000-foot level of Cumberland No. 2 at Springhill, N.S., has thrilled the nation. It was the triumphant reward of determined men in the rescue teams who refused to surrender to what appeared to be almost hopeless odds. In consequence the survival list has grown to 95 out of those who were on the shift in the mine when the disaster happened, and every effort is being made to see if that can be increased.

This development emphasizes again the acute need for emergency help in the stricken Nova Scotia community, whose main support has been the operation of the coal mine. If that is to be closed as unsafe Springhill would suffer an economic blow of devastating proportions on top of the sad loss it has already suffered in broken homes and missing breadwinners. If the seams are closed there will be a binding obligation to see that some equivalent form of industry is opened for a community that has shown great courage in the light of appalling misfortune.

Interpreting the News

Tension Lessens Over Quemoy

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IF last week's trip to Formosa by John Foster Dulles was as successful as it appears to have been, the world may hope to see the problem of Quemoy and Matsu fade slowly away. In three days of talks with President Chiang Kai-shek, the secretary of state came to a number of agreements.

Most important, Chiang agreed to renounce the use of force in his avowed mission of returning to mainland China.

The Quemoy and Matsu islands lost their status as being essential to the defence of Formosa. They also ceased to be viewed as stepping stones in the Nationalist Chinese plan to return to the mainland.

If the Communists stop shooting at the islands, Chiang apparently will be willing to pull back some of the 100,000 military men, a third of his total forces, who are tied down there.

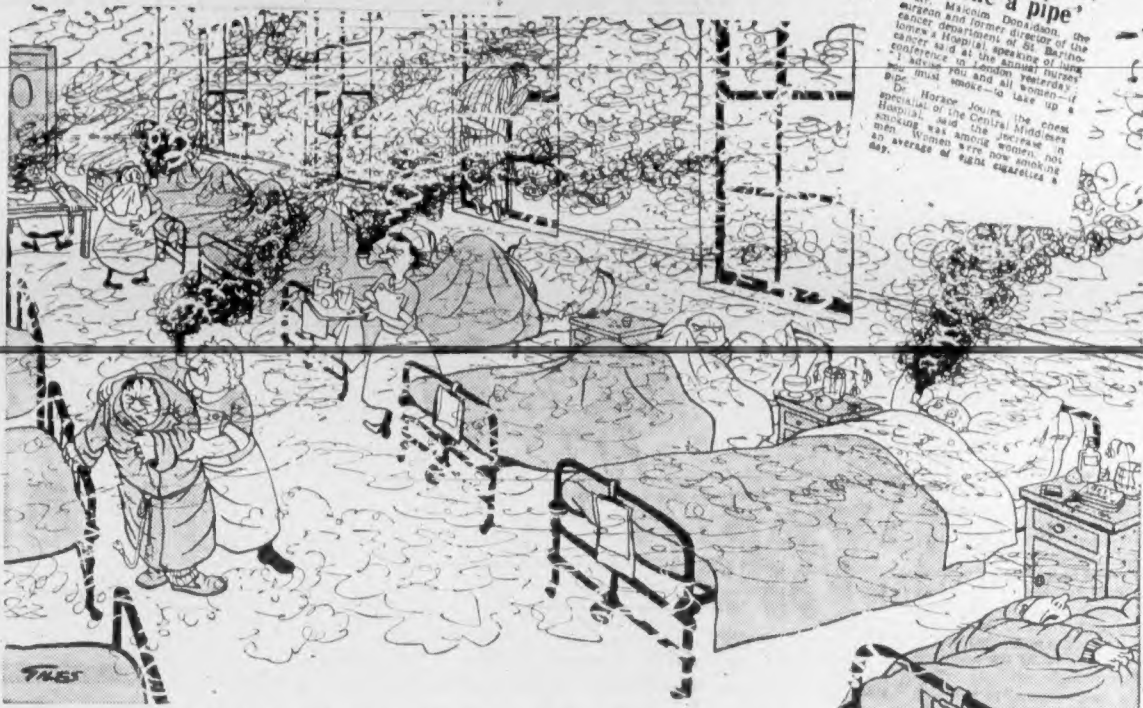

The outcome of these agreements indicates that Chiang, Dulles and President Eisenhower realize there are two Chinas even if this doesn't result in diplomatic recognition.

For its part, the Nationalist government declared its purpose to be "a worthy representative of the Chinese people" striving to preserve ancient Chinese qualities and characteristics.

Instead of invading Communist China, Chiang's mission has been subtly changed to that of sheltering and promoting Chinese culture.

The aim appears to be to encourage political and economic reforms on Formosa to make the island an example of democracy to the mainland people on the chance that they will put pressure on their leaders for similar changes or possibly rise up against them.

Thinking Aloud

By TOM FAYLOR

PROBABLY Kitchener is scarcely even a name to generations of the jet age, but a new book on him arrested my attention, for it was to K of K that I owed my first enforced journey to the storied lands of the Near East.

That was shortly after he had summoned Sir Ian Hamilton to his room in the War Office, looked up and said, "We are sending a force to the Dardanelles, you are to have command," and then looked down again.

Such was the peremptory way of the man who had humbled a viceroy, and whose heavy moustache, piercing eyes and pointing finger in the poster "YOU" drew men to the colors in droves. Only "K" could have raised the multitudes of Kitchener's Army in such record time.

The years have dimmed his eminence, as they have that of many mandarins of the pre-1914 era. In our own times we have seen the British peoples better served by their battle commanders than, perhaps, ever before. Kitchener in his heyday bestrode the military scene like a colossus, but he is not listed among the great captains. The big war in-commoded the master of little wars.

Balfour called him a stupid man, which was no credit to Balfour. No sapper subaltern could have become possessed of a field-marshal's baton without apparent degree of military acumen. In the myth of his invincibility the public thought of him as a paladin, and this writer well remembers the day in 1916 when news of his drowning was received; we thought we'd lost the war.

The truth in one respect at least was that in Whitehall Kitchener was wholly out of his element, as probably General Eisenhower felt when first he entered the White House. Civilian government was beyond Kitchener's ken and cabinet ministers as strange a breed as he was to them. "Bloody politicians," he called them. How far removed he was from the ways of home life may be judged from his decision once to go down to Westminster "and make a speech to them." When reminded that as a lord he couldn't possibly speak in the Commons, he said: "Then get them here for me, will you?"

Kitchener of Khartoum may not have been the god he was thought to be when the Middle East salaamed at his feet, yet a myth can serve a nation well. In the larger providence of the first war his death was probably not the disaster it seemed, but his was the prestige that heartened the British peoples when they took up arms in 1914.

It might have done more. In his memoirs Hamilton says that had Kitchener taken personal command of the Gallipoli expedition the magic of his name would have paralyzed the Turks, so all-powerful was the reputation of the former Sirdar of Egypt. In more prosaic fashion Hamilton adds he would have been worth two army corps. In the light of hindsight perhaps that was exaggeration, but who actually knows and what an "if" there thus remains.

"K" of the piercing eye and peremptory figure was busy elsewhere, anchoring a nation to its initial effort in the first of the global wars. That alone justified his marshal's baton even if history inclines now to biographies that remove much of his halo. A man belongs to his own age and in his, at least, Kitchener loomed supreme.

Letter from London

Breaching Barriers of Resentment

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

THE visit of President Heuss of West Germany to Britain prompts a query as to whether diplomacy is not just a little bit too far ahead of public opinion. There were signs of cordiality among some sections of the people—but there were also signs of silent disapproval which were quite significant. The Sovereign's escort with its colorful plumes and shining breastplates always attracts a London crowd—but on many parts of the route there was a significant silence.

There has been some outspoken criticism too. Who, for example, advised the Queen to emphasize so strongly her German ancestry? Who suggested that the president should lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown warrior in Westminster Abbey? It is as though the British Foreign Office cut out half a century of recent history and pretended that it had never happened.

The point of it all is that the great majority of British citizens have not been out of the country. They remember the bombs falling, they remember the horrors of two world wars and wonder just how much we should try to forget. Perhaps those of us who have been to Germany feel a little differently about it.

Indeed it is one of life's strange experiences to walk down a shattered thoroughfare, look at wrecked houses and damaged churches, to visit mass graves in a cemetery and then suddenly realize that you are in Germany—that this damage was the joint effort of the Royal Air Force and the United States Air Force and some very substantial assistance from Canada, Australia and the other overseas dominions.

For a very long time I thought of the horror of the air raids on Britain, but I am now reasonably certain that Germany suffered a great deal more. All that Britain received was returned with interest accrued, and the wives, mothers and sweethearts of Germany died and were wounded as they were in Britain.

Indeed the only thing left to argue about now is who started it—and I venture the opinion that no one is in doubt about that. Everyone I met in Germany was aware of who started it. Many felt that we had been unduly vicious—but then they had not been to London, or Coventry or Plymouth. But there was no difference in attitude to bombing, air raids or the bestiality of war. Germans and Britons both spoke the same way. Life was pretty stringent in Britain during the war but there is not much doubt that it was worse in Germany.

There are not many people in Germany today who believe in Hitler, a few may believe that he had the right idea but most of that persuasion are quite convinced that he set about it the wrong way. The few pro-Hitler and pro-Nazi minds in Germany today are regarded very much as the crackpots of other nations are regarded by their nationals. Indeed the outstanding thing about Germany today is the cordiality with which Britons are received. There is not the same cordiality to Americans, and Americans like to think that is because the Germans feel that they really upset everything—that the Germans really licked Britain but America prevented them winning the war.

It is a possible explanation but it is unlikely. My feeling after talking with many Germans is that they are resentful of the fact that the Americans did not suffer at home during the war; that immediately after the war they tended to put the boot in whereas Britons more willingly accepted Sir Winston Churchill's injunction to be magnanimous in victory. There was also the fact that British troops when they saw just how much Germany had taken felt, from the bitterness of their own experience on the home front, that they had had just about enough.

In Britain, however, there is still the insular anti-German feeling which has shown itself in polite silence during the visit of the German president. Probably it would have been more sensible if the president had not placed a wreath on the tomb of the unknown warrior, wiser if the Queen had not gone to considerable pains to emphasize her German ancestry—but national hatred and history cannot be maintained forever as instruments of policy. The barrier had to be broken down and President Heuss has started the process with dignity and courage. As a strong anti-Nazi who never wore a uniform, no one could be more fitted to the task.

Probably it will be a couple of years before the Queen pays a return visit to Germany. By that time memory will be dimmed a little more, but even now there is little doubt that the Queen would be welcome in Germany today and that a visit would help strengthen Anglo-German relations.

I asked a German newspaperman what he felt about the visit. "Just a little bit awkward," he said. "Rather like the family homecoming of someone who has been in jail. Everyone wants to be awfully nice. They feel that he has expiated his crime. They want to be friendly—but they just can't help remembering that he has been in jail, and a speaking fear that he may do the same thing again."

It is as good an assessment as any. Maybe it will take time before the confidence of the higher reaches of diplomacy penetrates down to the man and woman in the street, but a start had to be made. President Heuss made many gestures—not the least being the gift of nearly $15,000 toward the rebuilding of Coventry cathedral and some outspoken comments on pre-war German leaders.

Londoners by tradition tend to be cool and indifferent to foreigners—even the friendliest foreign visitors of state get a mild reception unless the Queen is actually present. Granted that the public reaction to President Heuss was even more restrained than usual, the fact remains that as the first head of the German state to visit Britain since Kaiser William, he has created a very good impression. He has broken down some of the outward barricades of resentment. No doubt the Queen will help to secure their removal when she visits Germany.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

IN a second-hand bookstore yesterday I was browsing around when the proprietor opened some cartons of books he had just received by express from an out-of-town estate, out of which he had bought the books sight unseen. The late owner had been a scholar, and the 200 volumes in the cartons were those referring to Canadian history and affairs. I helped unpack, and among the lot were some real treasures.

"Look at the book plate!" exclaimed the book dealer.

Each book, on its inside cover, had pasted in it a simple label which read:

"Return in ten days to . . ." with the late owner's name and address.

"Now that," I declared to the book dealer, "is the way to lend books. If I'd had a book plate like that, I would today have a hundred books that I have lost, lent to forgotten friends."

"It wouldn't have worked," said the book dealer. "What excites me about this book plate is this. I have had between five and ten books pass through my hands in the past few years with this very book plate in it. I didn't know who he was. It never occurred to me to communicate with him. I supposed he was dead long ago, and his books thrown onto the junkyard. But his friends were robbing him."

The best rule of all, for a book-lover, is not to lend books.

Socialized Industry

Not Much 'Togetherness'

From the Montreal Gazette

ONE of the aims of nationalized industries is that they should do business with one another. They are supposed to deal with one another, in order that they may help ease one another's problems.

But a curious situation has arisen. The National Coal Board in the United Kingdom has unprecedented stocks of coal upon its hands. It would like to sell its coal to the nationalized gas industry. But the gas industry finds that the prices of the nationalized mines are too high.

It is going, therefore, to import frozen natural gas from private business interests in the United States. A spokesman of the Gas Council says that 2,000 tons of frozen natural gas from the United States are due to arrive in a specially-equipped tanker. If the experiment is a success, the tanker will be put on a permanent run.

The National Coal Board thinks that this is hardly playing cricket. And certainly it is a little odd for a nationalized industry to deal with private enterprise in another country, when another nationalized industry in its own country is ready to do business with it. "Togetherness" is supposed to be the hallmark of state-owned enterprises. But in this case the Gas Council feels that the more they are together the unhappier they will be.

Letters to the Editor

Veterans' Hospital

I venture a few comments on our local Veterans' Hospital. If I am wrong on any point I am quite willing to be corrected.

Firstly, it seems very difficult to get information over the telephone about any veteran patient.

Secondly, the parking lot is inadequate and inconveniently placed for visitors.

Thirdly, no visiting is allowed on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday without express permission.

Re the last two items, both have discouraging effect on visitors. When I asked why these afternoon visits were not the rule for visitors, I was told that the "patients were resting." Am I to conclude that the patients on these same afternoon visits in the Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals are not resting?

Veterans are not second-class citizens. They and the public have paid and are paying for everything they get, and it seems odd that these regulations should differ from those generally accepted for all other hospitals. It would be quite easy to spare any disturbance of patients needing absolute quiet.

In the United States there has been severe criticism of the fact that veterans' hospitals are located in such a manner that visitors are actually discouraged. This may be in keeping with the military tradition of removing personnel from their home area during a training period, but it is not consistent with general practice in our hospitals.

May I conclude by saying that I have heard nothing but praise for the operation of our Veterans' Hospital, but it seems to me that some clarification might be made of the things I have mentioned above.

Develop Clover Point

Clover Point, the small peninsula on the Dallas Road waterfront, provides an ideal site for the development of a new local attraction from the present, relatively uninteresting road loop.

Well-known features of seacoast resorts at England, for instance, are the steel-framed piers with their concert halls, restaurants, swimming pools and observation platforms. Here we already have a nature-made "pier" that could be readily developed into increased gardens, promenades at the seaward end, as on the French and Italian rivers, with an aquarium and possibly refreshment service facilities and a small glass-domed concert hall for residents and tourists alike.

It is believed that former Mayor Harrison, as the merits of suitable economic developments in that area. Perhaps our present council, in cooperation with the capital improvement officials and town planning commission, could fully investigate the scope for such improvements. Clover Point is understood to be owned and controlled by government property.

A new Victoria seacoast feature seems competitively desirable, if only as a distinctive tourist attraction.

The Real Pioneers

In reference to the editorial in the Colonist a few days ago, "A Dream Fulfilled," may I say in all due deference that the late Premier John Hart was not the one who first envisaged the Campbell River Power development. There were numerous interested in that long before Mr. Hart and the government of British Columbia came into the picture.

My father, Monaghan King, and the Campbell River Power Company were the first ones; death and war stopped their plans. Last year I gave a book of this company with pictures, data, etc., to Mr. Ireland at the Provincial Library. For the story of the struggle of the falls in 1909 you will find an account by Mr. Claude Harrison in the Victoria Colonist of April 14, 1936. As to how Michael King was regarded in the community, see Victoria Times, Dec. 20, 1910, and the editorial and front-page of the Daily Colonist, Dec. 20, 1910. His dream has been fulfilled but real pioneers get no credit.

Dying Boy Denied Insulin

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The parents of a seven-year-old diabetic boy who died after they allegedly refused him insulin because of religious beliefs will be arraigned next Wednesday on charges of involuntary manslaughter.

District Attorney Vincent J. Blinn scheduled the Nov. 3 hearing for Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Corbell. Their son David, died at a Christian science nursing home in February, 1956.

Ban Lockouts, Strikes, Church Leader Urges

WINNIPEG (CP) — Protestant church leaders reaffirmed their opposition to gambling in any form Thursday, and one spokesman congratulated Roman Catholic authorities in Quebec for discouraging bingo.

Speakers on a panel discussion at the biennial convention of the Canadian Council of Churches also expressed strong opposition to a Canadian lottery.

Rev. Evelyn Davies of Toronto, president of the council, said he was particularly pleased to see Paul Emile Cardinal Leger act to stop bingo in Quebec.

Earlier, during discussion of labor disputes, Mr. Davies said he believed strikes and lockouts should be abolished as weapons of gaining advantage in labor disputes, and compulsory arbitration enforced.

"I see this," he said, "as a member of a working family who has fought for the right to strike for more than 25 years."

Dog Assists In Arrests

PORT ALBERT — Two arrests were made here in connection with theft of an office safe and a car, after a hunt in the early hours of Thursday morning.

A safe weighing between 300 and 400 pounds was stolen from the front office of Miller Motors Ltd., Kingsway, North, late Wednesday. The late model car was also missing.

Less than an hour later RCMP were notified that the car had been found in a ditch about two miles east of the city on the highway. The safe, intact, was found in the trunk.

The dog was brought from Quilicum to aid in the search, and followed "he scent in the direction of the city."

Police withheld names of the two who are expected to appear in Port Alberni court next Wednesday. One of the suspects is a juvenile.

OTTAWA — Physicians attending Earl Alexander said the former Canadian governor-general's condition was "slightly improved" Thursday following a heart attack last week.

Homes Will Grow in Beauty Spot

With Salt Spring Island in the background, this is one of the 17 beaches on the 240-acre Piers Island which is shortly to be subdivided for summer homes. It has been purchased by Gulf Resorts Ltd. after being for 50 years in the ownership of a Victoria family.

Seafront for Summer Homes

Lovely Island Sold For Building Lots

One of the most lovely of the Gulf Islands is to be divided up for summer homes.

Piers Island, in Satellite Channel just north of Swartz Bay, has been sold to Gulf Resorts Ltd. by Mrs. Margaret Harvey of Victoria, whose husband's family have owned the 240-acre island for the past 50 years.

The sale was confirmed yesterday by H. Fraser Biscoe, Victoria realtor who handled the transaction.

PEAT INTERESTS It is understood the principal of the new company is Jack Bell, a Vancouver businessman with interests in the peat industry on the mainland.

It is the intention of Gulf Resorts to subdivide the island to provide seafront lots for summer homes.

It has 17 accessible beaches and a water supply sufficient for at least 600 people.

John W. G. MacKenzie, Vancouver contractor and associate of Mr. Bell in the venture, said that the location of Piers Island near the proposed Island terminal of the new provincially-owned ferry service would make the island extremely convenient for summer homes for mainland residents.

"We feel that with the high prices asked for most seafront lots, a large number of Vancouver and Victoria families are denied their own seafront summer homes," said Mr. MacKenzie.

"It is our hope that we will fill this need by a subdivision of the island at prices which will be attractive to people in the middle-income bracket," he added.

Mr. MacKenzie said that the objective was dependent upon the roads which would be involved in making the subdivision according to government regulations. Preliminary discussions have already taken place with government officials.

PRICE NOT GIVEN Price paid for the island was not disclosed.

Piers Island is believed to be named after a naval surgeon who served with HMS Satellite when it was in service in these waters. It is within two miles of Princess Margaret Island, recently designated by the B.C. government as a marine park.

NANAIMO — Salvation Army expenditures totalling nearly $5,000 have gone in providing food, accommodation, transportation, and clothing for needy people in Nanaimo during the past year.

Capt. Charles Smith said that 1,528 meals have been provided, and 815 beds have been made available in the year-old hostel. Apart from these services, grocery orders have been filled and clothing has been provided for the needy.

The local group celebrates its 70th anniversary on Nov. 14.

GENEVA (AP)—Russia has Soviet delegation sounded the rejected Western proposals to doom of a compromise move ban nuclear weapons testing promoted by India and Yugoslavia.

The Russians said they would vote for a proposed no-limit discontinuing of tests with no control system, if Britain and the United States would join in a pledge to stop tests for all time, no matter how the talks here result. The condition was rejected by Britain and the United States.

The Moscow statement said that if America and Britain agree to a permanent ban on tests the U.S.S.R. will cease its tests.

WINNIPEG (UPI)—The federal government was "ready and willing" to go ahead with plans for a new air terminal in Winnipeg, Transport Minister George Hees said Thursday.

Both Britain and the United States said the talks with the Russians will go on whether the Russians test nuclear weapons or not.

Soviet moves to the United States and Britain, rejecting the one-year ban, were backed up by two other Soviet pronouncements.

In Moscow, the Tass news agency—and Moscow Radio, reported that the Russians will continue testing until their total matches that of the United States and Britain combined.

Grid Future Brighter For Ron Clinkscale

WINNIPEG (CP)—Dr. Dave Bruser of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers' medical staff says he sees no reason why Calgary halfback Ron Clinkscale's football future should be jeopardized by an injury he suffered here Monday night.

Clinkscale was injured in the third quarter of a Western Interprovincial Football Union game, won 35-10 by Bombers.

Manager Jim Link of Calgary Stampedeers said Tuesday that the injury would probably mean the end of the road for the import halfback. Dr. Bruser disagrees.

Dr. Bruser told Link at Calgary by telephone Wednesday that Clinkscale would have missed "a few games" if the injury, involving the vertebrae, had occurred in mid-season. As it was, he said, the Stampedeers were through for the season as a result of their loss to Winnipeg, and the Texas halfback has all winter to recuperate.

Have Bed, Will Thrive

By M.A. CHESNUT, FRIS

A bed of flowers and foliage will make a garden bed a beautiful sight for many years without any further work. There comes a time when the garden bed is a mess of weeds and grass, and the flowers are dead. It is then that the garden bed is a mess of weeds and grass, and the flowers are dead. It is then that the garden bed is a mess of weeds and grass, and the flowers are dead.

against woodland shade they have the will to grow and flourish in full sun, providing that you can penetrate them with lots of water, or occasional feed of liquid manure or soluble fertilizer, and an annual thick mulch of rotted manure or leaf mould.

As it is suggested as they are let, oval little beds, measuring from 3 feet long, can be made in more places than you can possibly use in the new bed, so that the garden will be a mess of weeds and grass, and the flowers are dead.

It is a good idea to have a bed of flowers and foliage in the garden. It is a good idea to have a bed of flowers and foliage in the garden. It is a good idea to have a bed of flowers and foliage in the garden. It is a good idea to have a bed of flowers and foliage in the garden.

First Man On Moon A Woman?

TORONTO (CP) — The first man on the moon, says an American rocket expert, may be a woman. Dr. G. Edward Pendray of New York City, former president of the American Rocket Society, said Monday night the first person to reach the moon, within five years, will be between 19 and 21 and weigh 100 pounds. He told the Toronto Herald that those chosen for the first moon trip might be women. They were better suited than men physically and "have a tremendous homing instinct—they'd be sure to come back."

Tough Guy Weeps Over Pet

DETROIT (AP)—James Earl Ray, the convicted slayer of Dr. Martin Luther King, wept as he said good-bye to his pet squirrel, a small animal he had kept in his cell.

The squirrel, about four months old and named "Buddy," had been with Ray since he was a child. Ray said he had kept the squirrel in his cell for a month and a half when they met on the outskirts of Detroit.

"She gives me comfort with me," Ray said. "I feel better. Please don't put her to sleep."

Police said the squirrel will be released in its natural environment.

Happily in Hospital

Rescued miner Caleb Rushton settles happily into bed at All Saints' Hospital in Springhill after being brought up from mine entombment.

Rescue Highlights

Dozen Men Cried As Help NEEDED

SPRINGHILL (C.P.) — How much beating does a miner's heart take when he is rescued after 13,000 feet underground? Twelve men who waited for help for 13 days cried when they knew rescuers were coming for them.

SPRINGHILL (C.P.) — Levi Milley, 47, one of 12 men who survived, wants a full-time job on a chicken farm.

"Chicken raising has sort of been my hobby, but now I think I'll take it up for a living. They aren't going to get me down any coal mine any more."

Be Generous Anglicans Told

"Generous response" of all Anglicans to a Springhill disaster relief fund appeal has been asked by Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia.

He said last night he had circulated all the clergy of his diocese, about 100 churches on this and the other islands, asking that all parishioners be given an opportunity during the next two Sundays to help "the stricken people of the Springhill disaster."

Archbishop Sexton said those not able to make contributions at their churches could send donations to the secretary, my time wasn't up, and that Synod Office, 912 Vancouver Street, Victoria.

OTTAWA (C.P.) — A $50,000 gift to the hard-hit mine families of Springhill was among the first actions of the new Pope John XXIII.

SPRINGHILL (C.P.) — Harold Gordon, coal company vice-president and rescue director here, was ordered to bed by his doctors yesterday for a rest.

SPRINGHILL (C.P.) — "I think I could have lasted another day down there," said Harold Brine. "I just figured my time wasn't up, and that Synod Office, 912 Vancouver Street, Victoria, had to wait longer."

Will More Miners Return?

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (C.P.) — The weary people of Springhill have gone back to their vigil of waiting — waiting and hoping that a second miracle will deliver more of their menfolk alive from the Cumberland mine.

Assistant rescue director Frank Doxey said Thursday there is "a slim chance" more men may have survived in the No. 2 colliery where 174 miners describe how the men have worked. They're going at the job hammer and tongs now. But whether two miracles will happen only time will tell.

Mr. Doxey said no rescue miners have had to be treated for exhaustion yet and none has shown any other ill effects. The crews change shifts at regular intervals and are replaced by fresh men.

derground upheaval last Thursday.

Rescue workers would not know for sure until they dug their way through another 420 feet of rock and debris at the 13,000 foot level.

Mr. Doxey said digging crews are working "hammer and tongs" spurred on by the first miracle discovery of the 12 men alive.

Speaking of his rescue crews, Mr. Doxey said: "Words can't to get into the remaining 420 foot section on the 13,000 foot level from three different directions.

One crew of bare-faced men working without gas masks, and PORTLAND, C. N. Custer has resigned himself to being outnumbered 12 to 1 by the women in his family. The Portland insurance agent joyfully greeted the birth of his 11th daughter Tuesday night. He has no sons.

vanced 220 feet during the day. But a crew of draggermen hampered by heavy breathing apparatus made only slow progress.

In the town the excitement of Wednesday's "miracle" died down. It was the seventh day since the mine roved in.

Meanwhile, in All Saints' Hospital, joyful scenes took place. Waves and children of the 12 rescued men rejoined when his family told him they had bought a cemetery lot for his burial.

Theodore Michniak broke into tears at the sight of a son he never expected to see again.

Doctors said all the survivors were in good shape considering their ordeal. They could go home after a little rest, except for Joseph McDonald, who has a broken leg.

In Halifax the provincial government declared post Sunday a day of public mourning for the dead at Springhill.

Premier Stanfield announced the cabinet has named a committee to seek an answer to the town's uncertain future.

In London, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said of the rescue of the 12 men: "It's the best news I've had for several days."
